The liquor license question in the heavy to owners or insurance comtown of Stonington and village of pany.

Pawcatuck will be decided by ballot While indications are favorable for the renomination of Representative Peter Goelet Gerry, democrat, in the Second Rhode Island congressional district, still there is a political rumbling that may result in a disatrous storm for Gerry at the nominating convention. There is an open fight on for the republican nomination, with General Walter R. Stiness leading the field of candidates, and claim is made that he will be nominated on the first ballot. Former Mayor Harry Fletcher of Providence is making a stiff fight for the nomination, as is also David J. White of East Greenwich and Harr, B. Kane of Narragansett. next Monday, but not in Westerly until a month hence, or on the day of the state election. The vote in Stonington state election. The vote in Stonington on the question is never very overwhelming for either side, but usually favors license by a small majority. Two years ago, when a vote was taken in Westerly, the result was in favor of license by a very close margin. So there is no basis for any prediction of weight as to the result on either side of the Pawcatuck river. It is the general opinion, however, as goes Pawcatuck so goes Westerly, as the neutrals of Westerly will not permit Pawcatuck to have a monopoly of the liquor business. It is claimed that if Pawcatuck goes wet, so will Westerly, Pawcatuck goes wet, so will Westerly, and if dry, Westerly will be likewise. For that reason the no-license people of Westerly have extended their work Mrs. Charles W. Gale of Norwich delivered a very interesting address illustrative of her travels abroad Sunday evening at the First Baptist church of Westerly. Her subject was A Trip to Assam, India. She told of the incidents of travel entertainment, the into the town of Stonington in a com-bined effort to place Pawcatuck in the dry list, as the interests of the two dents of travel, entertainment, the character and the customs of the people, and of the pronounced caste that existed between the upper classes. This is carried to such an extent that even in an educational institution, supported by the English government, the laces are almost identical.

The expressed opinion that a burglar who would select a schoolhouse for visitation would not hesitate at a church has been verified in Westerly. Last Thursday night the Westerly High Thursday night the Westerly High school was forcibly entered, windows broken and desks pried open, but no booty was secured. It is presumed that during the same night the same burglars visited the Calvary Baptist church, using the same sized jimmy to force open a window. After gaining entrance, the intruders apparently took a peep into every nook and corner of the church and gave special attention to the desk of the clerk of the church. This desk was pried open and a small amount of money, less than $5, was taken.

The thieves were evidently in no hurry to leave such a good place, for they visited the toilet, took a wash and left their soap behind them. It was a piece of plain everyday soap and there was nothing about it to aid in the detection of the intruders. The police are of the belief that there are still some more boy burglars in Westerly who have kept themselves from the clutches of the law. The members of Christ Protestant Episcopal church have donated a beautiful window to the memory of James W. Pollette, who was an officer of the church and for over a quarter of a century superintendent of the Sunday schoo! The memorial has been placed in position on the side of the church edifice nearest the town hall. It is of beautiful design and fine workmanship and is in keeting with the other memorial windows of the church.

It has been demonstrated that there are firebugs as well as burglars in this section, and, like their predecessors in this line of crime, are sure to pay the penalty. There is no doubt that the fire that totally destroyed the house owned by Anthony Squadrito was of incendiary origin, nor is there doubt but that the fire off Liberty street Sunday night was the same. It was shortly after 9 o'clock when flame was seen leaping from a barn owned by the Betzey Gavitt estate by a person who was on West Broad street, and a fire alarm was promptly sent in from box 71, at Lincoln avenue. The barn is located to the right and rear and not 50 feet listant from the Peleg-S, Barber Hose company. The firemen made such a juick response that the fire was exinguished before it really got much teadway, and the damage was slight.

The barn is old, somewhat dilapidated, and was leased by Louis Cella and contained some hay, a wagon and odds and ends of lumber and other huidding istant from the Peieg S. Barber Flose company. There is a record of a pest that passed through a part of New England from July to September in 1770 known as the Northern Army, the worms be-as the Northern Army, the worms being brown with a stripe of black upon the back, each side of a stripe of yellow. The full grown ones were the size of a man's finger. They destroyed the entire crops from Lancaster, N. H., to Northfield, Mass., leaving only pumpkins in the fields. They disappeared as mysteriously as they came and have never been seen since except a few in 1781. So even in the "good old times" before the advent of the brown-tailed and the gypsy moths the boil weevil and the potato bug, there were trials for the New England farmer.
